IT IS SERIOUS

Some Norway People Fail to Realize the Seriousness of a Bad Back.

The constant aching of a bad back, The weariness, the tired feeling The pains and aches of kidney ills May result seriously if neglected.

Dangerous urinary troubles often follow.

A Norway citizen shows you what to do.

M. M. Kilgore Danforth St., says: "I had backache and rheumatic pains for more than a year caused by disordered kidneys. My kidneys were acting irregularly all the time and I was so lame and sore across the small of my back I could hardly stand up. At night I rested but little and was feeling miserable much of the time. I finally got Doan's Kidney Pills at F. P. Stone's Drug Store and a few boxes cured me." (Statement given July 24, 1908.)

Permanent Results

On June 7, 1916 Mr. Kilgore said, "I gladly continue recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. The cure they gave me has proven permanent."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Kilgore had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

OPTIMIST AND PESSIMIST

An Optimist and Pessimist met in the market place today. The Optimist, he wore a smile. The pessimist, a frown.

"Good morning," says the Optimist, "This is a good day."

"The sun is shining clear and bright, The birds are singing in the trees, And 'e'en the birds in song do give And constant praises give."

"Now, that the winter's passed away, And summer days are near, 'Tis true, the winter's passed away, And summer days are near, 'Tis true, the winter's passed away, And summer days are near."

"And thus, so spoke the Pessimist, 'Tis true, the winter's passed away, And summer days are near, 'Tis true, the winter's passed away, And summer days are near."

"Sometimes I even almost wish I never had been born!"

"And you who wore the frown today, How its glaring headlines told That the Allies had been driven back, 'Tis true, the winter's passed away, And summer days are near."

"And what about the submarines, And of the ships we've lost, And of the ships we've lost, And of the ships we've lost, And of the ships we've lost."

"And when the Government restricts us To a coarse and meagre fare, And feeds the birds in song do give And constant praises give."

"Talk of Freedom and Democracy, All such language now is stale, Mark my words, their great experiment 'Is destined sure to fail."

"I see you are a Copperhead, And you speak of language stale, If all the people were like you, 'Tis true, the winter's passed away, And summer days are near."

"There were Copperheads in sixty-one, Today 'tis peaceful, 'Tis true, the winter's passed away, And summer days are near."

"And they did not cause the war today, 'Tis true, the winter's passed away, And summer days are near."

NEWS FROM BOYS-IN SERVICE

The following extracts are taken from letters written by Clayton E. Heath, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Heath of Norway, Clayton is serving in the 54th Artillery, Co. E 101 Engineers A. E. F. Somewhere in France.

April 10, 1918.

Dear Mother and Father:
I have just received two letters from you, one written February 24, the other the 4th of March. We have not had any mail before tonight for about twenty-four or twenty-five days. I was mighty glad to hear from you.

We, meaning the squad I am in, secure soup paper last night and real where we boys of New England were at the front. While we were there we were not allowed to tell, we were there but guess that you knew it about as soon as we got there. We were there about forty days. We had to work like the "old Harry" but didn't have even an accident by shell fire. The German shells when they land somewhere near you for the first few times are rather nerve wrecking but after a while you get used to things and you don't take much notice unless they land pretty close to you, then it is time to vamoose, as you are pretty sure they have your range. Any way you look at it, it is a Hell hole.

I don't imagine there is much left of the dunes that we lived in while there as there has been some pretty bad fighting in that section since we left.

We had some dandy hiking with full equipment. Saw some beautiful country, covered about fifty-eight kilometers, which is about twenty-seven miles; we covered twenty-five kilometers one day, which is twelve miles. We finished the hike in motor trucks. Were in a rest camp for three days just getting settled.

I haven't seen any of the boys of Co. D of the 103rd since I wrote to you, telling about meeting Sergeants Dyer and Stiles.

We had a supper celebration tonight, one of our squad had a birthday today, the 10th. "Bob" had a box last night, had a can of tomatoes and one of vegetable soup and a can of cocoa. We mixed the soups, added milk and water, made cocoa, added condensed milk—that and our regular supper, we had some feed. One of the other boys had a box of 7-20-4 cigars come last night, we finished with them.

I left this letter the 10th and it is now the 12th. Have not got to go out to work tonight. Bob and I were on a detail all the afternoon, so we have tonight off.

There has been some hot times not very far from here today. Yesterday last, artillery firing, some of the American infantry got quite a few prisoners. I saw quite a few of them. They don't look as if they were starved. Their clothing was quite shabby and very dirty.

Most all are anxious to get into the play, there is always a fellow to take the place of one that might get hurt, and we are in it determined to win just as we would enter a game. That is the best feeling in the world. I have heard yet, just to show you exactly how we are fixed, I will tell you all the good things we have. Our barracks are fine, with the electric lights, nice shower baths, fine food as I have written to you about before, and a nice bed (not exactly as we have at home, but real comfortable).

For entertainment we have the movies, hand concerts, lectures, and once in a while a show. At the Y. M. C. A. we can get, for a reasonable price, hot chocolate, cookies, candy, and other refreshments. At the Y. M. C. A. store we can get almost anything a fellow would need in the line of toilet articles, canned goods, writing material (free) and different kinds of candy or nuts. As for myself, I can't see why we aren't just as well off over here as we were when we were loafing around in Portland Harbor. I'm sure we are seeing the world and if we do get back home safely, we shall have had a wonderful experience.

I wrote a letter to Eddie Russell, who is over here somewhere and am in hopes that I may get a letter from him soon. We haven't had very much news about the "Dough Boys" from Norway and South Paris, but I imagine they are doing their bit somewhere as all the others are.

I read in the paper that Sergeant Shepard had returned home and had been recommended for a commission. I hope that he will get it, but I don't think I should want to be in the "Tank Service" if I were him. There are a great many other branches of service which are more interesting. I might possibly see him if he did come over soon.

I have written now more than my vocabulary permits, so I think I will bring this to a "finis" and go to the movies.

Your Loving Son,
RAYMOND.

The following letter was written by Murray Bigelow, son of the late Mrs. W. P. Maxim of South Paris to his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Murch and is in the service in France.

May 12, 1918.

Dear Gram and Grampa:
I know you are wondering why I don't write to you more often. I write to you quite often and I suppose he relates the news to you. Really there is not much to tell you. We have been in France now for about five weeks. The time passes very rapidly. We work all the time from 7:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.; then we have a rest period. We usually have a ball game until 8 and then write a few letters. We all turn in at 9:30 p. m. all lights out. The camp itself is about twenty minutes walk from the city. I have visited the city once on a pass. There are more wine stores than anything else. They can sell wines to soldiers, but most of the boys are too busy and think too much of their health to do much drinking.

This is a poor place for a sick man. It is every one's salvation to keep well. I never felt so well in my life. What a thing to eat is phenomenal. We are fed well except at breakfast and things are getting better every day.

We leave here in a day or two for the so called front. I don't know just where it is. All of our work so far has been on motor trucks and we have had some real work and interesting. The time goes like lightning.

I shall surely be glad to get back home and see you all once again. Of course it is hard to tell what time it will come; we all hope for an early victory, but we must all work hard and we will surely win.

Must close.
Love,
MURRAY.

Dear Mother:
Saturday night and tomorrow is "Mothers' Day." We expect to work tomorrow, so I probably will not have a chance to write then. I have not much ambition to write, have worked quite a bit. We are working in an— have just moved here from our other town. We are at the same front, however.

The engineering company that moved out of here left the barracks awfully dirty. We have had to clean it up, that is why I am tired.

I got your box Thursday night, the one with the pair of socks and fruit cake, cookies and wafers, believe me they were pretty nice. The fruit cake looks so nice that I hate to eat it. The boys pronounce the cookies "Tres bon," which means very good.

Writing about this, there is a Salvation Army hut here and they bake cookies, cake and apple pies, etc. Maybe it wasn't good. They also have coffee and cocoa. The Salvation Army is doing as much good as the Y. M. C. A. They sell things lots cheaper than the Y. M. C. A.

One of the company clerks came in last night and told me that Bob and I had today off, so I left this letter last night and am writing this morning.

I suppose you have heard of it by now. Henry Stone was one of them. I saw his grave. I don't think that this is a very cheery letter. I can't seem to be able to think of anything. Must say goodbye for this time.

The following letter was written by Raymond Evans who is in the 54th Artillery, G. A. C. Medical Dept., A. E. F. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Evans.

"Somewhere," May 27, 1918.

My Dear Folks:
It has been nearly a week since I last wrote you. The time passes so quickly, I don't seem to be able to find time to write more often. The first few weeks we were here passed rather slowly, but this last month and in fact every day seems to fly. It really doesn't seem as though we had been over here more than two months. Therefore, you can readily see, we aren't feeling very much discontented although I really believe we all would like to get right up where there is real action. All the time. The sooner we get up there, the sooner this war will be over with and we shall return home again.

I received a letter from Howard yesterday; also one from Aunt Georgie. It seemed good to hear from them and, from what they wrote you must have written them telling them of my safe arrival over here. Dutchy Nevers got the Norway "Agonizer" from his lady friend in Norway. To see that paper was a regular treat. I can now realize why people who want to live in Norway, appreciate reading the "home" paper. Lieut. Allen was more than glad to see it and is very anxious that we let him see all that any of us receive from home. Eddie Stetson received five or six "Lewis and Clark" watches. I don't think I contained quite a bit of Norway News.

From quite a bit we fellows read in the papers, it seems that the people back home think we are enduring real hardships. This refers to those who are on the front line only. Of course, I don't know much about the conditions up there because we haven't been up as yet, but am quite sure that most of the fellows are contented. I have had the chance to talk with a few, who have been right up in the thick of it, and they all talk as though they had much rather be up there than in the rear. From the stories they tell us, it surely sounds as though it would be more fun than a little, and as one of the fellows described it, "It resembles a football game in a great many ways, in that all are anxious to get into the play, there is always a fellow to take the place of one that might get hurt, and we are in it determined to win just as we would enter a game."

That is the best feeling in the world. I have heard yet, just to show you exactly how we are fixed, I will tell you all the good things we have. Our barracks are fine, with the electric lights, nice shower baths, fine food as I have written to you about before, and a nice bed (not exactly as we have at home, but real comfortable).

For entertainment we have the movies, hand concerts, lectures, and once in a while a show. At the Y. M. C. A. we can get, for a reasonable price, hot chocolate, cookies, candy, and other refreshments. At the Y. M. C. A. store we can get almost anything a fellow would need in the line of toilet articles, canned goods, writing material (free) and different kinds of candy or nuts. As for myself, I can't see why we aren't just as well off over here as we were when we were loafing around in Portland Harbor. I'm sure we are seeing the world and if we do get back home safely, we shall have had a wonderful experience.

I wrote a letter to Eddie Russell, who is over here somewhere and am in hopes that I may get a letter from him soon. We haven't had very much news about the "Dough Boys" from Norway and South Paris, but I imagine they are doing their bit somewhere as all the others are.

I read in the paper that Sergeant Shepard had returned home and had been recommended for a commission. I hope that he will get it, but I don't think I should want to be in the "Tank Service" if I were him. There are a great many other branches of service which are more interesting. I might possibly see him if he did come over soon.

I have written now more than my vocabulary permits, so I think I will bring this to a "finis" and go to the movies.

Your Loving Son,
RAYMOND.

The following letter was written by Murray Bigelow, son of the late Mrs. W. P. Maxim of South Paris to his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Murch and is in the service in France.

May 12, 1918.

Dear Gram and Grampa:
I know you are wondering why I don't write to you more often. I write to you quite often and I suppose he relates the news to you. Really there is not much to tell you. We have been in France now for about five weeks. The time passes very rapidly. We work all the time from 7:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.; then we have a rest period. We usually have a ball game until 8 and then write a few letters. We all turn in at 9:30 p. m. all lights out. The camp itself is about twenty minutes walk from the city. I have visited the city once on a pass. There are more wine stores than anything else. They can sell wines to soldiers, but most of the boys are too busy and think too much of their health to do much drinking.

This is a poor place for a sick man. It is every one's salvation to keep well. I never felt so well in my life. What a thing to eat is phenomenal. We are fed well except at breakfast and things are getting better every day.

"Corn-Less Day" for Feet, Every Day

Use "Gels-It," the Great Corn Discoverer! Makes Corns Peel Right Off!

Look at the illustration below. See the two fingers peeling off a corn as though it were a banana peel. And the man is smiling while he's doing it! All done painlessly, joyfully. The moment "Gels-It" is used.

"Gels-It" is the Only Genuine, Inexpensive, Peeler Ever Discovered. Demand "Gels-It."

Touches a corn or callus the growth is doomed. It takes but two seconds to apply "Gels-It." The corn is eased at once. You can sit at your desk or walk about, dance, think, love and work with absolute ease. You can apply "Gels-It" conveniently almost anywhere where you can take your shoe and stocking off for a moment or two. "Gels-It" dries at once; then put your shoe and stocking on again. There's no further excuse for suffering from corns and corn-pains.

"Gels-It," the guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, the only sure way, costs but a trifle at any drug store. Mr. H. B. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Norway and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by F. P. Stone.

Water Powers In Maine

In making the assertion that there are $1,000,000 horse powers of undeveloped water powers in Maine and that 500,000, additional h. p. may be added by storage, the advocates of State ownership are making extravagant and false statements.

The Water Storage Commission states that the maximum amount of undeveloped water powers is 1,023,000 h. p. They do not say that this amount is available for development and clearly it is not available for practical developments. On page 69 of their report of 1910 they state:

"The assumed maximum development, based on that amount, the continuation of which can be assured during six months of the year."

To develop on the basis of six months of the year would require extensive steam auxiliary power.

The actual amount of undeveloped primary power (that it, power that can be depended upon for ninety to ninety-five per cent. of the time) which may be developed along practical lines is not in excess of 300,000 h. p. or about one-third of the maximum stated above. This estimate is made by as competent engineering authority as there is in the State of Maine.

The amount of storage available for practical purposes is also much less than 500,000 h. p. owing to the large expense attached. Storage reservoirs or water powers may not be practicable to develop if the damage cost on account of flowage is too great.

Norway High School Graduation

Class Officers

Pres.—Roland Lawton McCormack.
Vice Pres.—Doris Sibley Longley.
Sec. Treas.—Elva May Perry.
Marshal—Charles Lloyd Fletcher.
Class Motto—"Give to the World the Best You Have."
Class Colors—Red, White and Blue.

Norway Opera House was packed to the doors during the graduation exercises Thursday evening, June 13, and many gladly accepted standing room.

The class colors appeared in American flags tastefully draped about the stage front, sides and background with a carpet of ferns and wild flowers about the foot lights. A service flag carrying fifty-three blue stars and four gold ones occupied a conspicuous place in the left. The class motto appeared in blue letters on a white field with a red border on an arch across the stage with the school banner "Norway" above all. Tri colored incandescents in the electrolite and along the balcony front completed the patriotic setting. These decorations were arranged by the Juniors.

Seated upon the stage were members of the school committee High Pendergast and Dr. L. Hall Trufant; Superintendent, True O. Morrill, Principal Percival E. Hathaway, Sub-master Albert C. Parker, Assistants Marguerite E. Lougee, F. Marion Lougee, Edith M. Knight, Mary F. Dresser, Janette Pratt with the principal in charge of the program.

Stearns' orchestra opened the exercises with a procession and the graduates marched to their places led by the marshal and flower girls, Elizabeth Klain and Alice Bartlett.

Principal Hathaway read the War Time Certificate for Meritorious Service signed by Carl E. Milliken, Governor of Maine, for simplicity in the graduation exercises. Prayer was offered by Rev. M. O. Baltzer of the Norway Congregational church with orchestral response. The class parts followed.

Salutatory, Elva May Perry. The class was likened to a company of soldiers about to enter battle. Past school days were as life in the trenches and studies as a drill under officers personified by the school committee, superintendent, teachers and parents. "Tomorrow we go over the top." To-night is the hush before the great battle. The fight in "No Man's Land" will depend upon the camp and trench training. If we have slighted our work of preparation; if we have often practiced the camouflage of the student, commonly known as "bluffing" and have failed to put forth good, honest effort, our chances for future success are very small.

The Golden Idol, by Charles Lloyd Fletcher, was a brief outline of worship traced from simple primitive ideas held by the cave man in his nature religion to the complex ideals and conceptions, invested in Christianity. Material forms and celestial bodies as objects for worship have disappeared from enlightened minds but idols exist in selfish greed for false success and fame. Many are money made while following at breakfast speed the lure of immense wealth above all things. A prediction was given that after the war closed our blinded senses would become touched with a reactionary stimulus, leading to a better understanding of the real life with its humanitarian needs.

Child Life, Florence Alma Harriman. The mental development of the infant and its progress in knowledge of material things followed by a yearning toward moral and spiritual conditions was ably expressed. It is child nature to give back just what it receives, therefore it is imperative that we direct and demand a wise course of training along the best lines. Cheerful environment, clean associations and uplifting ideals is necessary especially if temptations are strong. We must train for the future, as the children of to-day are the men of tomorrow.

Work of the Y. M. C. A., Ida Florence Merrill. The speaker gave a short history of its organization in Montreal and Boston December, 1851, seven years after its birth in London. Stress was laid upon its splendid work among the wounded soldiers regardless of creed or nationality. Its care of the soldier during his rest period when entertainments are furnished, appetizing food served, conveniences for reading, writing and study furnished all in clean surroundings. A strong appeal was made for the most hearty financial support.

Class History, Arthur C. Bartlett. Class commenced as freshmen in the fall term 1914. This year hazing was abolished upon Principal Hathaway's suggestion and the robust personality of John Sanborn, one of the "freshies." Otis Jones was elected president at the first class meeting. The first ride was taken in a rain storm to the home of Elva Perry at Norway Lake. In the second year at Norway, the "freshies" were again elected president and Lloyd Fletcher was elected president and the annual class ride to Elva Perry's home occurred during another rainy period. This year several plumed hard over their books but the majority spent valuable time impressing their advanced knowledge upon the "freshies."

Class Prophecy and Presentation of Gifts, Ruth Crockett Akers. This number was a skillful character delineation and forecast of future events as read in an ancient crystal. Each member's peculiarities were exposed in a humorous way and gifts bestowed appropriate to the individual need.

Doris Longley received a box containing "camouflage" for facial decoration. Elva Perry received a "New Jersey" as a constant reminder of an absent one in that state.

David Klain accepted a toy wheelbarrow as a book carrier while attending college.

Florence Harriman was presented a clinical thermometer for she will become a faithful nurse in a children's hospital.

Adeline DeCoster carried away a Jew's harp with a request she practice diligently for on her seventieth birthday she will accept an old "bach" named Klain and this musical instrument would cheer his declining years.

Philip Braden was surprised to receive a nest apron for his helpfulness as a hatcher at class supper. A suggestion was given he should continue in the good work.

Ernestine Maxim received a mammoth pen and holder as appropriate tools for a literary career.

Lloyd Fletcher because of his attractive manners which might spoil his career, a wire trap containing a mouse was presented. This charm would certainly drive away the "species."

Marguerite Frost became the happy possessor of a handsome kitten as a companion during monotonous years in an old maid's home.

Mattie Dudley, owing to some trouble in the crystal, the prophesies was unable to say whether or not an old maid's life would happen. To make sure, a rolling pin was presented which could be used during the Domestic Science teaching and later might prove convenient in subjugating the genus homo if fate decreed a match.

Doris Merrill would be lured from the pet ambition for becoming a nurse, and become a daring bronco-buster on the Western plains. A riding whip was her gift.

Roland McCormack received a "Votes for Women" banner, as his oratorical powers and tenderness to the fair sex would send him lecturing on Woman's Suffrage.

Olive Stone, a natural lover and exponent of the care free outdoor life, was presented a song, "My Gypsy Wanderer" as typical of her ambitions.

Marion Purington because of her small stature, was given a ladder and megaphone. Both articles would become useful about leap year, as she might climb and whisper the necessary words in "His" ear.

Marietta Nichols was selected as Norway's first police woman. Circumstantial evidence pointed strongly to that profession as she frequently walked the street with a "Billy" under her arm. Her gift was a substantial policeman's billy.

Ida Merrill, the class pessimist, who cast perpetual gloom over the class was presented glasses with rose colored lenses.

Roger Sloan's career led him onward as dean of a female college because of extensive knowledge along those lines. He received a certificate signed by N. H. S. girls which certified his fitness for the position.

John Sanborn the class heavyweight, a docile target for the snares of a more woman was given the book entitled "How to Make Marriage a Success," with the cheerful admonition to study it carefully and never lose her poise. "Dor" N. Bartlett with a strong leaning toward a ministerial career will give up this cherished am-

The neatly arranged barracks and camps, his balanced reasons, the Y. M. C. A. and other uplifting organizations there for his moral welfare. The Protection of Our Forests, John Albert Sanborn. Our forests are among the leading resources of this country. Their greatest enemy is man! Destructive fires through carelessness had wasted millions of money, until the American Forestry Association organized in 1882.

At the conclusion the class assembled and sang the old words by Ernestine Maxim, music by Adeline DeCoster and Ruth Akers. Stearns' orchestra which furnished music at intervals during the exercises closed with "The Star Spangled Banner."

Valedictory, Doris Sibley Longley. Our lives are compared to the building of a magnificent temple with the richest, the best and most servicable material.

"As we build our lives from day to day let us use the most perfect materials to be found, casting aside the useless, hindering things seen on every side. Courtesy, thoughtfulness, and the ability to live with others, all lend beauty and charm to our living temples. The solidity and beauty of our architecture depends upon the thoroughness and patience with which we have wrought."

Supt. T. C. Morrill presented the diplomas. Doris Sibley Longley received the Don Seitz prize given annually for the highest scholarship.

HARKEN BACK ON THE PAST

Twenty-six Years Ago Last Week C. B. Cummings & Sons have placed in their mill a whistle, the like of which was never heard in this vicinity. It can be heard for twenty miles, more or less, and the grangers have made arrangements with them to blow the whistle as weather signals. The weather forecasts will be telegraphed daily by the Government Station and by a set of signal blasts on the whistle, given to the whole country.

This arrangement is not in use now. A new whistle was put in this spring for convenience.

Little Harry Morse (he prefers to be called Tom Thumb) came near being seriously injured, Wednesday. He was running across the street and, though directly on to Dr. Barker's team. The doctor tried to stop, but the horse was trotting and before he could pull him up the horse struck the boy, threw him down and the front wheel passed over his leg.

The boy was picked up and examined and though he limped a little and cried lustily, he walked all right.

Long Overland Trip
Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Stevens and two daughters of Los Angeles, Cal. were guests Saturday at Hon. Bertram G. McIntire's on Crescent street. The family made this trans-continental trip in a Ford leaving the Pacific coast on May 3. Through Mr. Stevens' mechanical genius the car body has been so arranged that comfortable sleeping quarters with beds and hammocks can be utilized on short notice. They carried a complete culinary outfit and camped enroute over a distance registering more than 3,900 miles. Arizona furnished the hardest roads on tires and the Alleghany Mts. offered a treacherous climb. Excellent motoring was found between Indiana and Portland as Federal roads were generally the rule. A gas economy record should be noted, as they averaged 24 miles per gallon.

The party had been visiting friends at Harrison and Waterford, leaving Norway Sunday for Berlin, N. H., the Rangeley Lake region and will journey to New Brunswick. They plan to visit the McIntires again before returning to California.

Cobblers' Base Ball League Opened

Ball players from the Carroll, Jefferson Shoe Co., Norway, officially opened the season Saturday afternoon with a spiky game on the fair grounds. Verily it was a 3-0 circus.

The first teams to break the ice were the lasters and finishers. A ten inning whirlwind gave the lasters the victory with a score 20 to 12.

Irving Witham as commander-in-chief of the lasters team, collected a bunch of diamond experts, Saturday.

Henry Vancourt, the star side wheeler and exponent of the camouflage curved stuff. They also carried along in the first string many has-beens in the game, who have not forgotten their early days in some bush league many years ago.

Roland Hussey's collection from the finishing department, included several with a base ball reputation, but unfortunately had an off day and not up to big league measurements. Every player on the team made a good showing after rusty joints were limbered up, but heavy slugging from the lasters team assisted by Vancourt's special dope ball canned their chances for winning.

Without exaggeration this battle was one of the most terrific engagements fought on this field since the days prior to the closing of the Spinnery factory. It was not all blood-shed, as abundant comedy stunts unconsciously pulled off.

On the side lines in an uproar and the rotors blowing. It certainly was not a pitcher's battle, for heavy strike work punished the horse hide, and kept the fielders galloping toward the cattle sheds.

Probably Walter Poindexter, the sedate official, was the hardest working man in the field. His ability to hand down decisions with justice and truth, without being chased to the club house, was a testimonial to his calm judgment, and inside knowledge of fine points.

In the sixth inning with the score 5 to 2 against them, the finishers made a glaring mistake by a general shake up. The players were shuffled about gloriously and this move opened the jack pot. The little black jinx got in his work and danced with glee to see the tornado rip up his victims. Witham's lasters fell on pitcher Banks without showing mercy, and lambasted out 12 singles, nothing but runs to their credit before the runners, from sheer exhaustion fell in a dead faint between bases and were easily retired.

The finishers started a drive in the seventh which might have evened the slanted score, if the bottom had remained intact. Three errors, three singles and Trafion's triple sack sky scraper into left field, coaxed across 6 runs. Another rally in the eighth gave 4 scores on 3 hits, but the bats put up a fight.

Not only spoiled a fire, but spilled the gas and their crippled machine was literally hauled in for extensive repairs.

Vacation Work Permits

Supt. T. C. Morrill answers the question regarding minors working in the factories during vacation. He says, "The Child Labor law provides that no child under 14 years shall be employed, permitted or suffered to work in, about or in connection with any manufacturing or mechanical establishment. It makes no reference whether schools are in session or not. Work Permits may be issued by the Superintendent of Schools only to minors between 14 and 16 years of age. Applicants between these ages should present their birth certificate."

THE FRIENDLY FIRES OF OLD NORTH WATERFORD

(By Ellen Millett Davenport of Worcester, Mass.)

There was once a time when the house that did not have at least one fireplace was rare indeed and my earliest recollections are of a glowing fire with an iron frame on which I learned my letters.

These fires were built of seasoned hard wood and no modern furnace of air, steam or water could equal the warmth and comfort of that open wood fire around which we children sat and listened to the wonderful stories told by our elders. No child led the conversation in those days, but strictly obeyed the injunction "speak when spoken to," and "go to bed at seven o'clock" unless the child was ten or twelve years old, when eight o'clock was the limit.

From my father's mother were married they began to keep house in the two front rooms of "Grandmother" Hobson's house while my father was building the house lately owned by Dr. C. M. Coolidge. In this house were three fireplaces and around them grew up the children of George Hobson. They were our nearest neighbors and I well remember sliding from the roof with the Hobson girls on drifts of snow such as are never seen in the winters of later years.

Is there any one who remembers "Aunt" Caldwell who lived opposite the red schoolhouse? Her two beautiful daughters lived to womanhood and died, leaving her alone by the open fire, but in that room overlooking the whole village I spent many quiet hours.

Is there any one who remembers the schoolhouse? The teachers were married couples and the Green family, seven girls and one son. They were all singers and to pass the time in their company was a delight. Every new song they learned, and in those days the scholars sang as I have never heard others sing in any place in my life. Wm. E. Pulsifer, one of the teachers who could lift a backward pupil from the Second Reader and Holbrook's Arithmetic, into the Fifth Reader and the middle of the Common School Arithmetic, and make them believe they belonged there, a fine bass singer and a leader who could command and inspire both respect and affection. I think Wm. E. Pulsifer is still living but I do not know where.

Many were the parties, the sleigh rides and the musicales when he was the teacher of the village high school. There is a monument of rocks in Mother's Pasture, of which he laid the corner stone, with a witty speech, in 1871.

Nearest the schoolhouse was the Buswell family; all those girls but Lilly who married Charlie Allen have gone to Heavenly home; and of the other family of Greens, who lived near the church, none are left but Ruth who married Arthur Chaboureaux.

In both these houses were other fireplaces, with clean-swept hearths and radiant fires whose tropic heat did not speak of conservatism but of a life if $15.00 a cord for wood of inferior quality.

Uncle John Rand kept the village store, and around that fire, evenings unnumbered, the village fathers sat, waiting for the daily mail, or telling their favorite stories over and over. This was the fire of all others to comfort and cheer.

Up the street was Uncle John's house where he and Aunt Phoebe lived nearly fifty years. Grandmother Bates lived with them twenty-eight years and the stories of her own old times were marvellous to our young minds. Her fingers were always busy at knitting of which she kept several "passes," so when she got tired of one she could work on another. Her unforgetting maxims were both wise and original. That open fire was next to my own home, and as Uncle John was my father's brother and Aunt Phoebe was my mother's sister, and my mother died when I was only six years old, thus she took a mother's interest in her sister's children.

Many a dear and early friend came in to sit by that welcome fire. I would forget every pleasure of later years to sit with Aunt Phoebe by that warm wood fire once more. Who is left to remember the light of the open fire in the office of the Forest House where there was ever a genial welcome for neighbor, friend, or stranger?

It was a moment of bustling expectation when the great red stage drove up to that hotel, and supper was always ready, and dear Mrs. Rice could scarcely do enough for the comfort of the stranger or the guest within her doors. Almost opposite was another fireplace, where the gentle grandmother of Harry Brown and Alice Perkins lived, and here her sons and daughters lived. They too are gone, but not the influence of the fire and the glow of the open fire, and under the hill was another open fire where the Lebroke family lived, whose children's children still live and I doubt not, can tell of the joy of the open fire at their grandmother's.

All but around the village were friendly fires where it was a pleasure to visit. Once Ed Farmer had typhoid fever and Dr. Clark said, "They say I saved Ed's life, but Ed Farmer would have died as sure as fate if he had not been in a room with an open fire."

There are other open fires in other towns dear to memory where the hearth has grown cold and the dear ones have closed the door and gone out. While life's beating pulses stir, we will ever stretch forth the hands of memory and warm them by the wood fire's glow.

There is an unforgettable atmosphere in many a far off town like old North Waterford that leaves a cheery radiance in our hearts, and gives us courage to go on.

with her four weeks old son, visited her

All are invited to attend.

children attended the school exercises at Charles Hersey's, Saturday night. She returned to her home in Norway, Monday. We are sorry she does not expect would prove even more satisfactory than the first year of good work, but some other town generally claims the good teachers. Why is it?

MOOSEHEAD LAKE NOTES

Sugar Island, Friday a. m., June 14, 1918

Ralph: Am sending box of fish marked Laura A. Sanborn, Care "Buy or Borrow a Copy," Norway, Me. There are 23 fish—all square tails but one—a togue, which was caught on a fly. Seventeen of these I caught on a fly. Walter got four with worms and Charles Howe of Boston two on a fly, hence 23—dressed weight ten pounds.

They were taken from the water Thursday (the 13th) and I hope will reach you in good condition. They are "sugar cured," i. e. dressed, dried over night, sugar applied in the morning and again dried by absorbing moisture with paper and then rolled in straw or absorbent paper and boxed and shipped. They ought to keep several days if put where it is cool and dry—put no water on them until just before going into the fry pan, then wash thoroughly and fry up quick and brown. They will not be as good as when first taken from the water, but should possess some trout flavor and no doubt be pronounced "good" out of courtesy at least, by some who receive them.

Fly fishing is excellent and large catches and some big fish are being taken.
The largest weighed five pounds and was taken by Bill Burgess of Boston, while Mr. Hall has the credit of a five and one-half pound salmon and the losing of his tackle on another big fish.

By the way, Walter Smith of Norway had his rigging parted by a monster of the deep, big fish, weak line and a strong pull was the cause. Up to now the leviathans that swim in the thoroughfare and at Caribou Point have not molested me or run off with any of my fishing gear except a fly or two.

I caught the one I'm sending on a
No. 8 Yellow May, also a pound trout on the same kind of lure. When fish are feeding they come to most any kind of a fly, but seem to prefer a mixture of white and red and silver—something gaudy—the modest brown hooker is popular with the fish if not the fishermen.

Mrs. Greenleaf, landlady of the camps went to Bangor, Monday, the 10th, and was operated on at the hospital for ear trouble. I can't spell or pronounce the technical name, but it is similar to what Leon Longley of Norway had.

She was operated on Tuesday and word reached us Thursday she was getting on as well as could be expected. She has suffered with the trouble ever since coming here and Dr. Hunt of Greenville said she must submit to a surgical operation or it would be fatal. We all wait with anxiety the result as at this writing the critical period has not passed.

Mother takes kindly to the woods birds and wild flowers and I'm afraid she will get lost in her rambling on the island as she has no more idea of location than an owl has of astronomy. At least that is what I tell her. She disturbs the blackbirds, gulls and robins. She relates of a fiery black bird driving her from a cedar swamp and sending one dove into a bait pail and steel shiners therefrom. I lost three and she contends the saucy black birds got them while I laid the theft to ambitious baitless fishermen.

Elgin says blackbirds will steal bait from pails as crows will rob a corn field. Mother catches suckers and chubs and feeds the gulls and they begin squalling for something to eat as soon as she commences fishing on the wharf.

She has commenced practicing casting a fly and it will soon easily take the place of tatting, knitting and wood working and I'll have to employ a guide to take her out fishing so she can tell first hand of loosing tackle and seeing big fish. Guides get $4.00 per day, one in a canoe and when two persons are ad-dled $5.00. You must pay the guide's board of $1.50 per day, hence I can readily see before me increased cost of living expenses!

REGISTRANTS OF JUNE 5, 1918

Copy of the telegram received June 11th, 1918, at Navy Recruiting Station,
Portland, from the Navy Department, Washington, D. C., is as follows: The Provost Marshall General has informed this Bureau that new registrants may enlist in Navy upon securing certificates from their Local Boards, inasmuch as new registrants have not been classified they are not within current quota until classification and there is no reason why such certificates should not be issued upon request.

Thousands of Chil- dren Have Worms

Their parents do not know it.
Symptoms of worms in children are:
Deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, constive breath, hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever. Grow folk are subject to worms also.

The one best remedy is Dr. True's Elixir,
the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller.
Good for adults also. Mrs. Curtis, of Houston, Texas, believes this and writes that she will be glad to tell her friends of the benefits she has received. Get a bottle today at your dealer's. 40c, 60c Dr. J. F. True & Co. and $1.00. Write for further information. Auburn, Maine
